

Can you build brands online? Discuss (with us)

Central London

Publicis Technology is part of Europe's largest communications group, with over 250 people based in London, Paris, Munich, San Francisco and Amsterdam. We work with businesses to build their Web strategy, e-business applications and the creation and implementation of on-line and integrated marketing campaigns. Our clients include chello broadband, Ericsson, HP, BT and Asda. We are growing fast and we need bright energetic people to join in the following newly created senior positions:

■ ■ Producers

Have you delivered major web projects on time, to budget and to spec? If you've got the people and organisational skills to help our teams succeed, we would love to hear from you.

■ ■ Account Director (£multi-million account)

We are offering the real opportunity here to manage a £multi-million international account working across all areas of our business. Working with one of the fastest growing internet businesses in the world you must have experience in high level account management, a strong appreciation for new media, fantastic marketing and team management skills. This role will offer you the chance to help build a world famous brand.

■ ■ Head of Client Services

As Head of Client Services you will work in all areas of the business managing new and existing clients. Working at a strategic level, this role requires strong demonstrable client services experience and boundless enthusiasm for marketing and the web.

■ ■ On-line Marketing Manager

This broad role offers you the opportunity to work across our client base to develop on-line marketing campaigns. Acting as the "On-line Consultant" for Publicis you will strategically advise and implement web campaigns. You will have proven experience of developing internet marketing campaigns, relationship marketing, rich media and viral marketing. You will currently be working for an ISP in a marketing capacity or a media agency in internet marketing.

PUBLICIS · TECHNOLOGY

These high profile roles all require previous experience gained within the agency or new media environment with a real desire to make the internet work.

Please email a copy of your current CV with salary details to abailey@ptglobal.com